Additional Information:

Special Olympics is a program which, through year round sports training and competition in the Olympics tradition, gives people with mental retardation the chance to strengthen their character, develop their skills, display their talents and fulfill their human potential.

Today, Special Olympics West Virginia (SOWV) involves more than 5,000 athletes statewide. The program is supported by a network of over 6,000 volunteers who serve as the motivational framework through which sports training and competition in sixteen sports takes place. To encourage and expand high quality competition, a full calendar of competitive events is offered throughout the year.

Before arriving at competition, athletes receive a minimum of eight weeks of sport specific training. Most athletes are involved in organized training programs year round. SOWV believes consistency is indispensable to the development of sports skills in the athlete. Special Olympics coaches participate in training schools to update and improve their knowledge of teaching sports skills and the principles of coaching. All SOWV programs are designed to improve physical fitness, competence coaching. All SOWV programs are designed to improve physical fitness, competence in any chosen sport and the athlete's overall sense of self-confidence and well-being.

Special Olympics is a terrific example of the intrinsic value of sports competition. Cooperation, generosity, good sportsmanship and the will to succeed on the field and off are qualities demonstrated by each volunteer, coach and athlete. The dedication and hard work of the athletes, coaches and volunteers associated with Special Olympics serves as an example of what can be accomplished when people work as a team.

As members of our team, corporations and businesses play an invaluable role in the expansion of SOWV programs. Businesses have a unique opportunity to team up with an organization that is viewed by the public at large as the most credible charity in the US*. Special Olympics is a highly visible and recognized international sports movement that receives favorable public and media attention. The benefits of sponsorship and support of SOWV goes beyond philanthropic efforts.

We encourage you to get involved with Special Olympics West Virginia. The benefits of your involvement will be evident almost immediately. Special Olympics offers a variety of ways for your organization/business to be a part of our team. Together we can see to it that this is vastly under served segment of our society receives their chance to show the world what they are really capable of achieving. Special Olympics athletes, through their involvement in the program, become better students, employees, and citizens. SOWV is not just sports training; Special Olympics is training for life!
