Winter Activities

FOR TODDLERS

Snow Painting

Materials:

- Water
- A few small bowls
- Food coloring
- Paint brushes
- A bin of snow

Snow painting is a great activity for creative kiddos. Although it may be less messy to try snow painting outside, it can be done inside on the colder days. Start by mixing water with a drop or two of food coloring in each of your bowls. Set the bowls in a snowy area and place a paint brush in each bowl. Then, let your kid create!

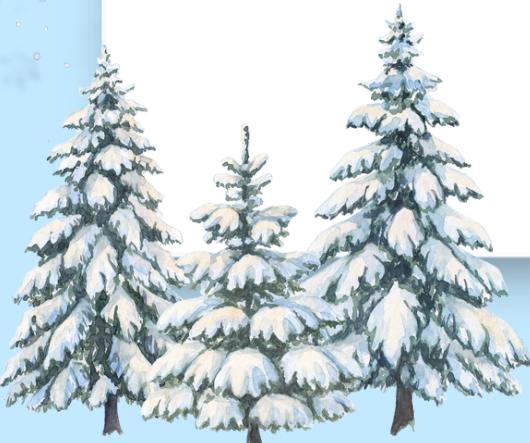

ADVICE FROM THE PARENT PARTNER

Building Flexible Routines as the seasons change, so do family schedules—especially with the return of school, older sibling's activites and earlier sunsets. Routines provide comfort and predictability. For example, if dinner is later than usual, move story time up to keep things fun. Flexibility helps children adapt to change and reduces stress for everyone.

Tip: Try creating a visual schedule with pictures or symbols. Even toddlers benefit from seeing what's coming next, making transitions smoother for the whole family.
