Public Health Threat Preparedness Surveillance and Epidemiologic Response Plan

Confirmation of a Bioterrorist Event and Notification Procedures

I. Bioterrorist Event

When individual(s) are exposed to a suspicious substance or there is an outbreak of infectious disease that could possibly be caused by a bioterrorist (BT) event, then the WV Bureau for Public Health (WVBPH), together with the local health department (LHD), shall determine the risk to public health and shall initiate and coordinate the public health response. A possible bioterrorist event shall be investigated for confirmation by the FBI in collaboration with various agencies, including West Virginia State Police (WVSP), WVBPH, local law enforcement (or postal service), and local health departments. The WV Office of Emergency Services (OES) shall coordinate communication between law enforcement and Public Health in order to facilitate response to a BT event.

A. Criteria for consideration as a bioterrorist event:

An exposure incident shall be considered as a possible BT event if one or more of the following criteria have been met:

- There is a verbal or written threat, evidence of a threat or other criminal intent, or need for a law enforcement investigation.
- The profile fits that of past bioterrorist events.
- There is epidemiologic evidence of a bioterrorist event (see Section E below).
- The target (location or person) is high profile, or
- The exposure was disseminated using known bioterrorism techniques.

B. Initial assessment of a possible bioterrorist exposure incident (overt event)

When a possible BT exposure incident is reported, then local 911 will always be notified. 911 shall notify local law enforcement (LLE) including WVSP who will respond to and evaluate the situation. Upon arrival, they should obtain as much information as possible so that they can make an informed evaluation. Based on their findings, LLE should make one of the following initial assessments to determine what further action is necessary:

1. Not a credible incident, i.e. none of the above criteria in section I.A are met –

July 3, 2003

no further action necessary other than reassurance and education of those involved, and notification of the LHD of the event and its resolution.

2. Credible incident –i.e.one or more of the criteria in section I.A for a BT event are met - investigation shall proceed as specified in Part C below.

C. Investigation of a possible bioterrorist exposure incident (overt event)

Local law enforcement (LLE) will investigate the circumstances of the incident and make every attempt to determine its credibility. If LLE believes that a BT exposure incident is credible, they will manage the scene and detain and/or identify involved persons. They will then contact the local health department (LHD) and the local OES (and if necessary the local fire department and EMS to handle safety/contamination issues) to discuss the facts surrounding the incident and to determine what actions need to be taken.

1. If LLE, local OES and LHD together decide that an incident is not a credible BT exposure, then no further action is necessary other than education and reassurance as mentioned in section I.B.1 above.
2. If LLE, local OES and LHD together confirm that a BT exposure is still credible, they will contact WVOES who will coordinate a state-local conference call with the LLE, local OES, LHD, WVSP, FBI, WVBPH's Infectious Disease Epidemiology Program (IDEP) Duty Officer, WVDHHR Disaster Coordinator, and any other appropriate individuals and agencies (e.g., State Health Officer, WVOES Director, WVOLS Director, IDEP Program Director, IDEP Bioterrorism Coordinator, or other experts). IDEP is designated back-up for contact and convening of this conference call. In this call, the possible BT exposure is discussed, laboratory testing may be arranged, the public health risk will be determined and the appropriate response shall be specified.
3. If multiple simultaneous incidents overwhelm the system and make conference calls as stated above unfeasible, then determination of next steps, including laboratory testing, will be done by the LHD in conjunction with LLE and local OES, after reasonable attempts to coordinate with IDEP have been made.

D. Confirmation of possible biological agents by laboratory test

Confirmation of a BT exposure incident is largely dependent on the results of laboratory testing determined necessary in the conference call referenced in C.2 above. Confirmation of a biological agent connected with a BT exposure incident shall be coordinated by the WVBPH's Office of Laboratory Services (WVOLS) as follows:

July 3, 2003

1. IDEP and local health departments shall ensure that samples submitted as part of a BT exposure investigation are submitted to WVOLS and/or other appropriate laboratories.
2. WVOLS shall conduct laboratory tests (or arrange for tests to be conducted by appropriate laboratories) on samples and specimens as necessary for confirmation of disease agents. WVOLS will report laboratory results related to possible BT events to the LHD, IDEP, WVOES, FBI, and postal inspector service (if involved). The WVBPH is responsible for notifying C.D.C. The LHD is responsible for notifying involved local agencies. WVOES is responsible for notifying other appropriate agencies.

E Investigation and confirmation of a possible bioterrorism-related disease (covert event)

Confirmation of possible bioterrorism may be based on a case and/or outbreak of disease. Unusual cases or outbreaks of disease may be the first evidence that a BT event has occurred. The public health investigation and notification is as follows:

1. When cases or outbreaks of possible BT diseases occur, then health providers shall immediately notify the LHDs, who shall immediately notify the IDEP Duty Officer. The LHD, together with IDEP, shall conduct a case or outbreak investigation, and evaluate the epidemiologic evidence to confirm whether a BT event is credible (see Attachment 2 for epidemiologic criteria to confirm whether or not a BT event has possibly occurred).
2. If such criteria are met, IDEP shall notify the WVBPH State Epidemiologist (DSDC) to confirm the evidence for a suspected BT event. DSDC shall notify the WVBPH Health Officer and WVDHHR Disaster Coordinator, who shall coordinate the public health response in conjunction with the LLE, LHD, FBI, WVSP, WVOES, and other federal, state, and local agencies.

F. Sharing of information

Public health and law enforcement shall exchange BT investigation information as appropriate in the course of their investigations.

II. Notification Phone Numbers

July 3, 2003

Appropriate agencies that, in accordance with procedures in Section I above, are to be notified to confirm a BT event and/or to initiate and coordinate the epidemiologic response shall be contacted immediately at any time of the day when a possible BT event has occurred. See Attachment 1 for 24/7 on-call telephone numbers for key agency contacts:
