Some WV Families may qualify for a one-time payment for Child Support Arrearages

The West Virginia Department of Health and Human Resources has received federal economic stimulus funds to provide low-income families additional financial assistance. A one-time payment of $500 per family may be paid directly to qualifying families who are owed child support arrearages. This one-time payment of $500 will be applied to the balance of any unpaid child support owed to qualifying families and will not affect other DHHR benefits.

Families who qualify for this one-time benefit will receive a notification in the mail later this month from the DHHR.
